You order a suit made up for you. Rarely is it done within a week. Often there are vexatious delays. You judge how the suit will look from a sample of cloth which often looks very different in the finished suit. That's one way to get clothes. The other way is See Your Whole Suit Before You Buy it Which means see how the lines suit you, see how the fabric becomes you, be certain of the final fit and get the suit without trips back and forth, which eat up valuable time

Canning Instruction Arouses Enthusiasm

The demonstration of canning and other branches of domestic science by Miss Edith Parrott, State demonstration agent, assisted by Mrs. Dora Dee Walker and Miss Grace Hufington on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, proved to be probably the most valuable bit of educational work ever undertaken in this or any other county.

The crowd which witnessed the demonstrations was very small but was the most enthusiastic and intensely interested crowd that has come together in many a day.

Mrs. Walker opened the series of demonstrations Tuesday morning. She is a specialist in the cultivation of the delicious pimento, and an expert in its preparation for the table. The pimento is the result of the grafting of a tomato on the bell pepper plant. The fruit partakes of the good qualities and flavor of both plants. Chesterfield county is especially adapted to its cultivation.

Mrs. Walker first explained the culture of the plant and its good qualities and uses. She then proceeded with the demonstration of its preparation. She showed how to make the delicious Dixie Relish, how to cut and pack peaches, tomatoes, corn and figs. She made some beautiful Splum jelly, explaining an infallible method of finding the exact proportion of sugar required.

The use of the canner was demonstrated by Mr. G. B. Jones. More will be said about this canner later.

One of the most interesting and instructive incidents of the day was the use of the fireless cooker when a beef roast was cooked with a fraction of the ordinary amount of labor and expense, the roast having a finer flavor than could have been acquired in an ordinary oven. A cooker can be bought at prices ranging from $5 to $25. These ladies showed how one can be made in any home at an insignificant cost.

Miss Hufington, expert in bread making and home-nursing, began her work Tuesday afternoon by starting the yeast, from which she made white bread, whole-wheat bread and fancy rolls yesterday morning. Her discourse on the food value and digestibility of whole-wheat bread should have been heard by every man, woman and child in the county.

The use of the fireless cooker was further shown in the cooking of hominy and other cereals as well as the freezing of ice-cream.

In the afternoon of yesterday methods were shown for the removal of fruit and mildew stains by the use of jarville water, the formula for which was given.

Home nursing and the care of convalescences was another very valuable demonstration.

The correct method of making tea and an easy way of detecting the presence of tannin was shown.

Another valuable kitchen adjunct described is the iceless refrigerator.

The half of what these excellent ladies said and did cannot be told in this issue of The Advertiser. Therefore it is intended from time to time to publish articles dealing with the subjects handled.

The Advertiser will take pleasure in answering, as far as possible, any inquiries concerning this work and especially pertaining to the organization of a canning club.

NO REASON FOR IT

You Are Shown A Way Out.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the word of a resident of this locality who has found relief. The following is a convincing proof of merit.

J. W. Eskridge, High St., Cheraw S. C. says: "I had rheumatic pains and kidney trouble. The pains were in the small of my back and I had to stop work. I could hardly bend over to put on my shoes and it was just a hard for me to straighten. The kidney secretions passed too freely and I had to get up two or three times during the night on this account. The flow was scanty and highly colored. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I can't praise too highly. Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the that Mr. Eskridge had. Foster-Millburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y."

An Interesting Visit In the Country

Farming Implements, Guinea-Chickens and a Snake Story.

A visit was made recently by representatives of The Advertiser to the home of Mr. A. A. Douglass, on the old Scotch road just south of town.

The visit proved to be a most interesting one. Mr. Douglass is not only a good farmer, but an exceptionally skillful artisan and an inventor of practical labor-saving devices for farmers.

He has made a cotton chopper that to all appearances does its work perfectly and ought to be on every cotton farm in the South. His rocking hog trough is calculated to bring joy to the heart of both hog and hog raiser.

An interesting exhibit in his barnyard is two young guinea-chickens, or chicken-guineas, as you choose to call them. The "biddies" at present bear a stronger resemblance to chickens than to guineas. Their development will be watched with interest. It is Mr. Douglass' intention to exhibit them at the coming County Fair.

But that is not all. Mr. Douglass had a snake story to tell. He is a truthful man and sober, and furthermore, his good wife corroborated the story, so The Advertiser accepts it as true in every detail.

The story concerns a chicken snake. Mr. Douglass said he had been missing eggs and young chickens for some time but had not missed anything else in particular. Though this snake did probably relish such delicacies at times, it is evident that it had developed an appetite in another direction—an appetite most unexpected in a dry county and on the premises of so consistent a teetotaler as Mr. Douglass.

As the story goes, the snake was seen to be "full" of something. As "full" snakes are not permitted on these premises, it was speedily executed and an investigation made as to the cause of the fullness. It was discovered that Mr. Snake held in his inner anatomy a four-ounce bottle, tightly corked. Further investigation revealed the fact that the bottle contained snake medicine—alcohol!

So far, the reader is on safe ground, dealing with sober fact; but he is likely at this point to leap into the wildest speculation, whether this narrative cannot lead. Was this in very truth a snake doctor, carrying an antidote for the bites of other snakes? Or was he like some other doctors and just loved the stuff?

But the bottle was corked and Mr. Douglass said he didn't discover that the snake had any corkscrew handy. We give it up!

Plant lettuce now and it will make heads in the open ground before cold weather.

For fall greens there is nothing better than savory spinach. The seed should be planted by the end of August.
